THE LION'S ROAR.

An Appalling Sound That Brings Terror to the Traveler.

Once in the lion country you learn the real reason why he is termed the king of beasts. He looks it. Besides, there is the terror he casts over all the brute creation about him. And as for terror, there is one feature of life in East Africa that the traveler never forgets—the lion's roaring. To me no other sound in nature is more awe inspiring, more appalling, especially if heard at really close range or among hills, where the echo resounds in its rolling double bass. Contrary to the common idea, lions do not confine their thunderous calls to the night only.

Frequently in open daylight one may be startled by a sudden outburst.

They are a noisy lot too. At night I have heard a lion keep up the dire chorus for hours at a time; a blood curdling concert that brings to mind every tale, fanciful or true, of their daring, of their fierce rapacity and might. It seems, still further, to have an added dreadfulness when one is lying within the frail walls of a tent, with only its canvas between one and the formidable musician.

Listen now! There goes one booming in the distance, a roaring obligato that breaks into from six to a dozen calls. From the first to the fourth the volume usually increases; then it dies down. At very close quarters one hears the roar melt gradually into a purr, itself diminishing to a growling, discontented murmur that lasts for about half a minute, or there is the other sound, equally menacing—a soft and suggestive crunching noise, as though the beast had already settled to a grewsome meal. The lion's voice is mighty, as mighty as his strength.

Forget his habits, his love of carnion and his daylight turn of cowardice and you have the impression of a king of beasts—a real royalty along the brute creation—Everybody's Magazine.

BUILT ON DISCIPLINE.

Big Department Stores Are Managed

Like an Army.

"This is like an army," the manager explained when I went to him to as-ertain by what system he handled the big department store. "The assistant managers are the generals, the department heads the colonels, the floorwalkers majors, and so on down the line. Only matters which are out of the ordinary routine are brought to the commander in chief.

"The organization is built on discipline. Each individual knows what work he has to do, and if he fails the failure reacts directly upon him. Thus each in turn is responsible to the one above him until the responsibility reaches this office. In the final analysis I am responsible to the firm. If a girl ties a bundle wrong or there is a dispute with a customer I am directly responsible, although I have probably known nothing of the incident. I pass the actual administration of authority and responsibility right down the line until the person who is at fault feels it personally. Doubtless hundreds of things happen in this store every day of which I have no knowledge, and I don't need to know about them. So long as the man to whom I have delegated the authority delegates it in turn to some one who knows how to use it properly there is no reason why

I should interfere.

"This is the way it should be. I should not consider that we had an effective system if it were otherwise.

System must be so perfectly organized and every man must know and live up to his responsibilities so sincerely that I could walk out of this office today and not return for six months."—Interview With Manager of New York

Store in Bookkeeper.

Eating Away an Island.

Strength is not a thing usually con-connected with maidenhair fern, yet if its roots were not sufficient room they would break the pot in which the plant grows. Blades of grass will force the curbstones between which they spring up out of their place, and in a single night a crop of small mushrooms have lifted a large stone. Indeed, plants have been known to break the hardest rocks. The island of Aldabra, to the northwest of Madagascar, is becoming smaller and smaller through the action of the mangroves that grow along the foot of the cliffs. They eat their way into the rock in all directions, and into the gaps thus formed the waves force their way. In time they will probably reduce the island to pieces.—London

A Good Ticket for Republicans

At the head of our editorial columns this week we have unfurled the American flag and under the starry emblem we present to our many Republican readers a State, Congressional, Legislative and county ticket, which, in our humble opinion, is entitled to the suffrages of all loyal Republicans.

Of course this ticket will not be to the liking of sore-headed Insurgents, blood-thirsty Anarchists, disgruntled Socialists and other malcontents who are chafing under our present Republican form of government and would completely change the order things. However, this ticket ought to commend itself to every right-thinking Republican who goes to the polls next Tuesday to cast a ballot under the existing primary election law.

GOTOIT.

Once there was an Oakland judge
Incurred an awful wrath
A' trying to keep two fightin' men
In the narrow path.
One fellow claimed the Bowery
The other loved the hills,
A close-to-nature, strong-knit lad
Who balked judicial pills.
The latter lover of square deals,
(Jack London by the way)
Has sworn revenge, mysterious curse,
That Judge must pay, must pay.
Oh! Nemesis prophetic, apply the lash and thong
We mortals are too curious,
Dog not his path too long.

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It Makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drug. Is a pure glyceric extract of healing, native American roots.

WM. KENT MEETING

A HUGE JOKE

The Much-Heralded Insurgent Meeting Lacked Everything to Make it a Success

The much-advertised Kent meeting on the Plaza here yesterday was a joke. It was sans attendance, sans enthusiasm and sans everything that goes to make a political meeting a success.

After a vain attempt to attract a crowd with the aid of music by the Sonoma Valley Band, Kent, the insurgent candidate for congress, mounted the platform and faced an audience of just exactly 110 people. Of these, eleven were ladies and the balance was made up of a motley crowd of insurgents, Democratic sympathizers and about forty McKinlay voters.

Mr. Kent opened the meeting and was followed by Rolfe Thompson of Santa Rosa, who tried hard to earn his campaign salary by roundly abusing Hon. Duncan E. McKinlay, the best Congressman this district has ever had, in the interest of his millionaire employer, Kent. His abusive speech, while it gratified a few of the most rabid insurgents, proved a veritable boomerang and a vote-getter for McKinlay, who will sweep everything before him in this valley at the primary election next Tuesday.

A stereopticon lecture entitled "A Visit to Hongkong, Foochow and Peking" will be given in the Congregational Church next Tuesday evening August 16th, by Rev. Dr. Tenney of Berkeley, who will present a series of eighty views during his address. Be sure to hear him. Admission 10 cents. Everybody invited.

HERMAN BAYER

WAS A VICTIM

Was One of the Twelve Killed in

Train Wreck near Ignacio—

Has Relatives Here

One of the victims of the terrible railroad catastrophe on the Northwestern Pacific near Ignacio, last Monday evening, was Herman Bayer the well-known proprietor of the Model Saloon, Santa Rosa. He was a brother-in-law of Louis Breitenbach of this city and frequently came here with his family to visit relatives and friends. He was in the prime of life and one of the best known men in the county.

When the unfortunate man met his death he was seated in the smoker and was instantly killed by an iron rod entering his mouth and penetrating his head. Seated beside him when he met his fate was Dr. Watson, who was one of the few in the smoker who escaped death or serious injury.

Instantly after the collision the smoker was converted into a veritable human slaughter pen. Here it was that the twelve victims met their fate in a most horrible manner.

The disaster, the responsibility of which rests upon Conductor George Flaherty of the work train which smashed head on into the Ukiah express, was one of the most terrible that has ever occurred in this section of the State. In addition to the twelve victims, most all of whom are well-known residents of Petaluma and Santa Rosa, about nineteen are seriously injured.

The dead are: Pincus Levin, vice-president and treasurer of the Levin Tanning Company, Santa Rosa; skull crushed.

Herman Bayer, proprietor Model saloon, Exchange Bank building, Santa Rosa; skull crushed and otherwise injured.

H. W. Emerson, messenger for the Sonoma Express Company, Petaluma; skull crushed.

George Riley, advertising manager of the Pacific Rural Press, home address Petaluma; crushed to death.

W. F. Poehlmann, Petaluma, messenger for the Sonoma Express Company; cut in two at the waist.

John Wilkinson, San Quentin guard; skull crushed.

M. A. Banks, either of Rockland, Ill., or 205 La Salle avenue, Chicago, investor and land agent; skull crushed and body crushed.

A. W. Banks, same address as M. A. Banks, and believed to be a brother; skull crushed.

Neil Neilson, Black Point, Cal., employee of Dodge, Sweeney & Co., head crushed.

G. Laverone, 1425 Grant avenue, San Francisco; skull crushed.

T. W. Richardson, manager of Haslett's store, Petaluma; large splinter through abdomen; badly crushed, died on way to hospital.

W. B. Burton, stock salesman 2428 Milvia street, Berkeley; crushed chest, abdomen and cut about the head.

The complete list of the injured taken to the Northwestern Pacific Hospital in San Francisco is as follows:

A. C. Burnham, 1550 Curran street Los Angeles; injuries to chest and bruises about the head, shock.

G. W. Cain, Novato, left leg broken, bruises about the head and face, shock.

James Garforth, Novato, bruises and cuts about the head and body.

Ernest Laverin, 674 Broadway, San Francisco, injured about the head and severe bruises about the body, shock.

Bert Speaker, fireman on work train, Sausalito; right arm broken, and injuries to the head, probably concussion of the brain.

Bert Lyttaker, engineer on work train, Sausalito; broken left leg, concussion of the brain severe cuts and bruises about the chest and body.

Fred Savage, Cotati Cal., bruises on legs.

Capt. R. C. Van Tegen, Alameda; contusion and cuts about the head and face; severe shock.

SONOMA VALLEY UNION HIGH SCHOOL

Its Graduates May Now Enter the State University Without Examination.

The Sonoma Valley Union High School re-opens next Monday after a vacation of nine weeks, with the faculty the same as last term, as follows: Bruce H. Painter, principal; Ellen E. Trueblood, Latin and English; Margaret E. More, History and German; R. H. Platt, Commercial Department.

Graduates of the High School may enter the University without examination. In order that there may not be any misunderstanding or confusion in regard to the name of the Sonoma Valley Union High School not appearing on the regular list of Accredited Schools for 1909-1910, published some days ago, those in charge of the High School wish to clear up the matter.

After Prof. Thomas' visit of inspection here he reported that Sonoma High School was doing well, and "that a continuation of the same kind of work should soon place it on the accredited list." As for the year 1909-1910, recommended graduates might enter without taking the entrance examinations. He assured the Faculty personally that the High School would be placed on the regularly accredited list this coming year if the same improvement as during the past year continued.

The Board of Trustees and Faculty have no fear along that line, and those contemplating entering the University will not be required to take entrance examinations, provided they are recommended by the Faculty in the required subjects for entrance.

Furthermore, the standing of the High School is also determined in this manner "the scholarship records in the University of California of the first-year students from each of the accredited schools are kept in such a way as to show the scholarship standing of the school, as reflected by the representatives in the University and this record is made use of in determining the status of the school as a possible candidate for future accrediting."

The deceased was a brother of John Nordwell, who passed away here last month. He was a native of Sweden and aged 66 years.

CHOICE PICKINGS FOR THE LAWYERS

Mrs. Margaret Gough Evokes the Aid of the Law to Break Will of the Late John O'Brien

Mrs. Margaret Gough of this place, through her attorney Wm. F. Cowan of Santa Rosa, has commenced the long threatened suit to contest the will of her father, the late John O'Brien, who passed away early last month.

The will which is to be contested named as his heirs his three daughters, Miss Nellie O'Brien, Mrs. Kate C. Carriger and Miss Mary O'Brien. It disposed of property, mostly money on hand, valued at $1500. The balance of his estate, consisting of a 1000-acre ranch, was bequeathed to the three daughters mentioned above about six years ago and has been in their possession ever since.

Mrs. Gough, and another daughter residing in Santa Clara county, were not mentioned in the will, for family reasons. This was not to the liking of the former, hence the suit.

Among other things charged in the complaint filed by Attorney Cowan on behalf of Mrs. Gough is the allegation that her father was weak mentally and physically and was unable to make the will or any will. She avers he was of unsound mind and was under the influence and duress of Mrs. Carriger and the Misses O'Brien. She charges that Mr. O'Brien frequently used liquor to excess and this and other things rendered him unfit to transact business.

When attorney John T. Campbell of Santa Rosa, counsel for the heirs, answers the complaint it will be an entirely different story, and one, too, that may be interesting reading.

Young Woman From San Francisco Meets With Accident.

Miss Pringle of San Francisco, who is spending her vacation at the Hotel Bellevue, El Verano, met with a painful accident last Tuesday.

While driving along Riverside avenue with a friend the horse commenced to plunge and rear, which alarmed the young woman to such an extent that she jumped from the buggy, and struck the hard driveway with great force. She was picked up in a dazed condition and put in a passing automobile and taken to Dr. Leix's sanitarium for treatment.

An examination of her injuries revealed the fact that Miss Pringle was suffering from a dislocated ankle, and an incised scalp wound. After her hurts had been attended to by the doctor Miss Pringle was removed to her apartment in the Hotel Bellevue where she was rapidly recovering up to latest accounts.

Loustalet Sues O'Rourke.

A STATE SENATOR THAT DOES THINGS

What a Resident of Sacramento Has to Say About W. F. Price the Republican Nominee

Over in Sacramento we hope that you are going to send back Senator Price because we consider him one of the most valuable members of the Legislature, and one particularly fitted to do good work for the State. It needs a man who thoroughly understands the public institutions of the State to legislate intelligently for them, for instance. To come from your store or office, without having a moment thought to the matter and to try to decide what is the wisest policy to pursue in the management of the penal and charitable institutions of the State, is of course a very difficult task. Senator Price has personally visited and inspected all the institutions in the State. He has studied their wants and their needs and he knows by actual and careful observation exactly what they require. The result is that he is prepared to ask for exactly what is required, no more and no less.

He showed that in the last session when he asked for the appropriations for the Home for the Feeble Minded, and better still in the preparation of his bill to create a home where orphans and children who have no one to pay their bills can begin a technical education and taught useful trades. For years the only schools in the State where a boy could secure an education in a trade outside of one or two small and privately endowed institutions in San Francisco and Pasadena were two reform schools. It was and is a fact today that the boy that steals or does some criminal act is better able to secure a trade education, if his parents are poor and unable to pay his board bills than the boy who behaves himself. Such a condition should not exist and as a result Senator Price secured a large appropriation for a Trades School, which will shortly be established and before long will be ready to receive pupils. That alone was a most creditable achievement.

He also got through a bill in the interest of conservation to buy the Armstrong woods and while the Governor in the interest of economy, and because he had to veto a number of bills carrying appropriations in order to keep down the tax rate vetoed it, yet it is understood that if it be passed again that it will receive gubernatorial approval.

The appropriations for the old Missions came under the same category of needed economy and while passed by the legislature more fortunate in his efforts to secure large appropriations for farmer's institutes, one of the most useful schemes that can be suggested for improving the business of farming, which is daily to be carried on, on a scientific basis. The Senator secured a permanent appropriation each session for the development of viticulture, which is also on the same lines of helping the producer as was his work for the institutes. He also secured a law forcing merchants to disclose the fact by a label when selling eggs whether they were fresh or in storage.

Thanks to his experience and knowledge of the methods of doing business under the State government the Senator was able also to prepare and pass through the Senate several bills, the object of which was to change and improve the methods of meeting state obligations. Owing to the fact, however, that no one in the Assembly understood the necessity for them as thoroughly as did the Senator they never passed the lower house, which is to be regretted. I have no doubt, however, that if he goes back at the next session that he will repeat his efforts in those lines and no doubt will be more successful next time. It is never wise to change your representatives, whether in Congress or the legislature, if they are serving you faithfully and are attending to their business. Senator Price has been in the legislature so many years and has been so intimately connected with the State government that it would seem as though it would be a great mistake not to continue him for another term."

Voters remember! G. E. Murdock for County Treasurer.

Springfield's Resort

One of the recent business changes in this valley the past month was the transfer of the lease of Ohm's Springs property to Mr. Wm. Springfield, a well-known caterer of the metropolis. The new proprietor has christened his place of business "Springfield's Resort," and is making many improvements to the same. He will handle only first-class brands of goods and this coupled with a thorough knowledge of his business and a naturally genial nature is bound to make his resort one of the most popular in the valley. We bespeak for this gracious host much success.

F. V. Keesling is the live, energetic, popular candidate for Lieutenant-Governor from the north. Vote for him.

THE RED DAB OF DEATH.

Tragic Mark on the Steel Skeleton of the Skyscraper.

"See that big blob of scarlet paint?" said the engineer as he pointed to a girder high up in the skeleton of the new skyscraper. "That red spot means that one of the men working on the building was killed by the girder sweeping him off the structure while being put in position."

The visitor craned his neck and saw a rough patch of vermilion paint on one of the floor girders up on the sixteenth story. "It must be a dangerous life," he said to his engineering friend. "Yes. Those men up there are working under the chance of instant death at any moment. They'll walk along the sidewalk—a little path of slippery iron five inches wide—and will lean outward against the wind. You or I couldn't do it for a second."

"Now and again there's an accident. A chap slips. A worker gets hit by a swinging girder or incautious step and falls off into eternity. The men working near by do their best to get at him if he manages to grab the girder he's falling from, and there are some swift and reckless races with death to get to their comrade at any cost in the five or ten seconds allowed them while strong fingers are sliding away from a slippery beam flange. If the worst happens and the man falls in spite of their efforts, then they apply the dab of red paint, and the ironworkers call it a day. They don't speak much of the man that is gone, as a rule. He's soon forgotten. The men consider it fate."

"You'd think, by the way," went on the engineer, "that the higher up these men worked the more careful they'd become. They aren't particularly careful, but they do guard against the hypnotism of height. One of the men working on a high girder gets paralyzed now and again by a sudden fear that holds him motionless and still on his iron beam."

"The men look out for this sort of thing, and the remedy is to distract his attention by a rough blow on the back or in some cases by exciting him to anger through any means in their power. When the man gets fighting mad he is freed from the paralysis of terror or whatever you may choose to call it. He gets up from his girder to make a rush for the other fellow to do him up, and the moment he is safe he is restrained by the other men."

"Whenever you see a skyscraper framework," concluded the engineer, "each dab of scarlet paint on the iron means that some man has come to his death. Every skyscraper and every bridge is the monument to some little group of unknown workers, laboring at dizzy heights and dallying with sudden death as part of their day's work."

A Poverty Stricken Queen.

Partly owing to the fact that she was wedded to an avaricious king and partly because she was generous with the little money allowed her Elizabeth of York, queen of Henry VII., spent but a small amount for dress. She was very often in debt, and the sums she spent were ridiculously small, 20 shillings ($5) being the greatest amount expended at any one time. Her gowns were mended and turned, and new waists were made for them, as is shown by the record of bills paid to her tailor. These bills prove that she wore her clothes for a long time, for her gowns were obliged to be newly hemmed, and also that, though a princess of the great house of Plantagenet, she wore shoes costing but 24 cents, which were decorated with tin buckles!

Made it Clear.

A senator, speaking of the advantages of clearness of statement, told a story about a restaurant to illustrate his meaning. He said: "This restaurant advertised a dinner, but not in the loose way many other restaurants advertise dinner as between certain hours, whether there would be enough dinner to last between those hours or not. No. The man who runs that restaurant has a proper knowledge of his responsibilities and of the exact use of the language. He advertised, 'Chicken pie, 25 cents, from 12:30 until gone.'"

Saturday Evening Post.

A Cynical Statesman.

The saying that "all men have their price" is ascribed to Sir Robert Walpole. While speaking of a faction in parliament which bitterly opposed some of his measures he said, "You see with what zeal and vehemence these gentlemen oppose me, and yet I know the price of every man in this house except three."

Of some who called themselves patriots he said: "Patriots! I could raise fifty of them within four and twenty hours. I have raised many in one night. 'Tis but to refuse an unreasonable demand and up springs a patriot."

A Dilemma.

Mr. Crimmonbeak—A hunter in Newfoundland who has lost his bearings or finds himself in a fog has no difficulty in finding the way, as, owing to the constant west winds, the tops of all the trees point east. Mrs. Crimmonbeak—But suppose he doesn't want to go east?—Yonkers Statesman.

Married For Money.

"Do you mean to say that you married for money?" "In a way I did. I got married because I couldn't afford to stay engaged any longer."—Cleveland Leader.

Nothing can be produced out of nothing.—Diogenes.

The Dear Friends.

Miss Thin—Don't you think my new dress is just exquisite? Fannie—Oh, lovely! I think that dressmaker of yours could make a clothes prop look graceful!

His Chance.

Little Boy—I want a dose of castor oil. Druggist—Do you want the kind you can't taste? Little Boy (anxious to get even)—No, sir; it's for mother.

Silence is one of the hardest arguments to make.—William.
